MARBLE MANUFACTURER CELEBRATES EXPANSION OF MOSAIC PRODUCTION

Stamford – New Canaan resident and owner of Paul’s Marble Depot, LLC, Paul Adalja, will celebrate the expansion of his business’s unique mosaic artwork production, along with the establishment of a brand new showroom, with an Open House from May 15th until May 19th, 2009.

“Even in these difficult times we have expanded our production with the help of new European machinery we’ve recently purchased to manufacture mosaics,” says Paul Adalja, owner and partner at the Stamford based firm. The company is also unveiling a new line of custom-made mosaics in a plethora of sizes and shapes and colors.

Conveniently located at 40 Warshaw Place, Paul’s Marble Depot, LLC has made a name for itself over the past five years, as it has grown from a supplier and custom fabricator of marble and granite counter tops to a custom designer of high-end mosaics for a discerning clientele. The collection of stylish, elegant of ‘available to view’ natural stones their stockyard along with their time proven experience, expert designs and unparalleled craftsmanship makes them a unique outfit.

“We’re unique in the area because we provide complete service under one roof,” says Paul. “From initial customer consultation and project planning, color and design selection to fabrication and installation, we achieve our goals.”

Today Paul’s Marble is responsible for the stunning mosaic artwork seen in some of the area’s best restaurants, hotels, health clubs, as well as in the mansions of movie stars. Their custom combination basket weaves, rhomboids and hexagons grace restaurant floors, hotel lobbies, front vestibules, bathroom floors, kitchen backsplashes, fireplace surrounds and tub decks. Their elegant countertops incorporate sophisticated marble from Europe, Asia and South America, with exotic names like Gioia Carrara, Italian Calacatta Gold, Neutral Crema Marfil and Costa Smeralda. But even the names do not do justice to the gorgeous variety of tumbling, variant colors of the marbles, granite, slate, limestone, semiprecious onyx and travertine on display in the company's new refined mosaic and tile showroom. The size of the new showroom allows for an unhurried, smooth selection while the extensive range of stones on display speaks to the quality, style and scope of the craftsmanship and design work available.

"We understand the needs of our customers and accordingly provide just the right blend of services, stone selection, expert design, customer guidance and support to ensure the best possible results at the best possible price," said Sunny Adalja, partner in the company.

Paul Adalja has been importing and wholesaling tiles for well over 20 years. Prior to opening his Stamford site, his business was based out of York City where he supplied 200,000 tiles to the Westin Hotel in 1999 and 100,000 tiles to Trump Tower in 2000.

Their new tiles and mosaic showroom provides customers with a warm and inviting environment where they can shape their dreams into reality.

Adalja lives in New Canaan with his family and is actively involved with New Canaan CARES, Inc.
